ABSTRACT

This resource guide for public librarians provides an annotated listing of books, pamphlets, and multimedia materials about inclusion and parent advocacy. The introductory material explains inclusion, summarizes legal rights and inclusion terminology for librarians, describes the guide, and identifies some related resources for library collections. Items listed were published from 1987 through 1998. Listings typically provide: title, an evaluative description, bibliographic information, price, and source. Materials are listed alphabetically by title within topical sections. The nine sections cover: (1) general resources for parents, teachers, and community members (42 items); (2) resources for parents, day care providers, and early childhood educators (33 items); (3) resources for administrators, teachers, and support staff (19 items); (4) resources about the social aspects of inclusion (33 items); (5) information and training tools for inclusion facilitation (24 items); (6) resources that include arguments against inclusion (5 items); and (7) resources concerning legal rights and parent advocacy (41 items); (8) sources of free and inexpensive materials (9 items); and (9) bibliographies (14 items). Author and title indexes are provided. (DB)
